ABOUT ISEV

The International Society for Extracellular Vesicles (ISEV) is the leading international society for the advancement of extracellular vesicle research and its translation through scientific exchange, education, publications, and international collaboration. ISEV brings together researchers, clinicians, and industry professionals working across the global EV community.

ABOUT ISEV2027

The ISEV Annual Meeting is an international gathering dedicated to extracellular vesicle research. Averaging approximately 1,200 attendees over the past three meetings, it connects scientists, clinicians, technology providers, and industry leaders for scientific presentations, technical demonstrations, networking, and collaboration.

WHY SPONSOR ISEV2027?

Sponsoring ISEV2027 places your organization at the center of the global community, connecting you with approximately 1,200 researchers, clinicians, industry professionals, and technology users. Showcase your products, build brand recognition, generate qualified leads, and develop relationships with the people advancing EV science and its clinical and commercial applications.

ISEV2027 offers a variety of opportunities designed to match your organization's goals and budget. Options range from an exhibit-only package for connecting with the extracellular vesicle community to a dedicated Technology Spotlight during a plenary session. Diamond, Platinum, and Gold sponsors may also engage with early-career researchers during Education Day on May 5 and showcase their technology in the meeting's dedicated Demo Corner. ISEV invites you to explore the prospectus for the best option for your organization.
