EXTRACELLULAR VESICLES

2022 Global Support Program

Advancing extracellular vesicle research globally.

About ISEV

The International Society for Extracellular Vesicles (ISEV) was founded in 2012 to further extracellular vesicle research around the globe. Today, ISEV represents nearly 2,000 researchers and scientists around the world. ISEV advances EV research through its Annual Meeting, workshops, Journal and a growing list of other programs.

As ISEV continues to grow and provide new opportunities for expanding EV research it also finds new ways to engage its key industry partners and supporters. These valuable and essential partners now have access to our new global support program which extends exposure and opportunity throughout the year, not just during the ISEV Annual Meeting.

The last two years of disruption and advancement of virtual meeting technology has given ISEV a unique opportunity to deliver rewarding experiences for both our in-person and virtual audiences in 2022. This includes enhanced opportunities to further engage with our sponsors and exhibitors throughout the year.

Annual Exhibitor (Silver Supporters and Above)

ISEV will embark on a new experience in 2022 by offering year long virtual exhibits, in addition to our planned in-person opportunities.

Read on to learn more about what your exhibit includes and to see examples. Full descriptions of support levels and year-round benefits are available within this document.

Exhibitor-attendee matching program

ISEV will collect attendee interests prior to the meeting and provide you with a contact list so you can request meetings with your target audience. We will provide special training tips for the most efficient way to arrange meetings with attendees through the virtual exhibit portal. For example, we can show you how to integrate an existing scheduler you use into your booth or show you how to use the chat feature to arrange meetings.

The matching program is in addition to ISEV providing you a post-meeting list of email contact information for attendees who opt in to receive emails.

Dedicated break times and lead capture

ISEV will have dedicated break periods where attendees will be invited to visit virtual exhibits. Feedback from many organizations points to this protected break time as key to driving traffic.

In addition, we'll capture the following data for you and provide a report post-conference:

- Names and contact information for each person who visits the booth
- Number of clicks on links and videos and Who clicked on those items
- Names of individuals who specifically clicked your info request button

During the dedicated breaks, we will encourage attendees to visit all booths by hiding an ISEV logo in each booth (with your permission). Attendees will compete via a leaderboard, and you will get the lead information for anyone who visits your booth.
